SB1598

I oppose any legislation that mandates any kind of medical care, treatment, therapy to include vaccines. This all should be considered personal choice, including parental choice for children. Forced medication/treatment/therapy throughout history has always turned out to be a nightmare for everyone involved. Make all the recommendations you want, but do not force people to accept any kind of medical treatment, including vaccines.

The mRNA vaccines we are so enthralled with now will prove to be the death of civilization. The data is out there for you to see yourself. These vaccines are killing people, and no one knows why because none of them have ever been studied properly. I have studied vaccines for over 50 years since my best friend's mother got polio in the 1950's from the vaccine she and her family got. In her case, it was a contaminated/hot vaccine. And since we are finding all kinds of contaminating DNA and chemicals in vaccines, why would you push or force people to be poisoned? In addition, some people just cannot tolerate vaccines. I suspect this has something to do with MTHFR DNA snips. But no one has ever studied this. How many billions are we spending every year taking care of vaccine damaged people? You want more? Use your brains. Do not force medical care, treatment, therapies to include vaccines on anyone. You are not gods. You can pay for any insurance coverage you want if you desire this care, but don't force anyone to submit to unwanted care or poison. And as long as vaccine manufacturers have no liability for their problem vaccines, why would anyone allow their poison to be injected into a child.....or an adult?

Any appointed human being who might be called a public health officer, is not God. They are not a god. They don't know it all. And since science is in such a pitiful state of affairs these days, no government 'officer' should ever be able to control the physiology of others. The government should stay out of my health care decisions. It is your responsibility to do the 'proper' studies and tell us about them. It is not your responsibility to be fingering our private parts, including our immune systems. I bet none of you have ever delved into the real history of vaccines....and medicine. It's pretty pathetic to have to acknowledge it's a history of torture and death. How about doing some of your own research. Get some aluminum, mercury, formaldehyde injections ready and inject them into your brain.....see what happens. Talk about sorcery.
