I am strongly opposed to this resolution. The government knows this bill will not pass with voters in November and is hedging their bets that voter turnout is lower in the primary. Our governor knows that having this bill in the ballot in November will also hurt her chances at the polls (not that we have them anymore, but we should.) The Democrats are scared of what the results could mean in November and this is why they're attempting to divert this bill to May, in hopes that it slips through the cracks. Please do not allow this to happen. Listen to the people you all "claim" to work for.
