Of course, this attempt to put the tax option on the primary ballot, as opposed to the general election in November, is an attempt to keep this horrible piece of legislation that Kotek signed (after a delay which was also an attempt to control the outcome against the majority) off the final ballot because they can see their positions looking mighty weak. The November ballot of the General Election will have on it Kotek for re-election along with other questionable Democrats who seem to care little about the State of Oregon and our hard-working residents but gives conservative voters a chance to vote red and "no" on the entire ballot. With this text, I submit my opposition to Kotek and Democrats trying to manipulate and delete the wishes of at least 250,000 Oregonians. It would be great if they could represent the state instead of their limited voters and their anti-American values.
