I strongly oppose this measure of pulling from funds that the state did not budget for. If these areas require increased budgets, then they should go through the normal process of asking the tax payers if they would support a tax increase to fund them. A lot of tax payers, myself included, rely on the kicker (essentially interest free overpayment/loan to the state for 2 years) to assist with taxes due to federal government. This measure feels like a shady theft of money that taxpayers normally see as a sign of good faith from our government.
