I cherish the right to vote. My Grandmother's ancestors came from Germany fleeing from the 1930-40's regime, and she told me to always protect my vote as well as to keep it private. It's truly an American tradition to vote and have your vote counted. Our Country revolted against Britain so that we could be free to vote, speak and to have representation. In order to comply with election laes, electors who are sent to represent our states votes, do need to vote the way our state voted with no deviations.
